Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Status of Claims

1. Claims 34-36 are cancelled. Claim 37 is newly added. Claims 1, 12 and 23 are amended. Claims 1-33 and 37 are pending in this application per the response to office action filed on September 11, 2006.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-33 and 37 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2, 5, 7-10, 12-13, 16, 18, 19-21, 23-24, 27, 29-31, and 32, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aldis et al U.S. Patent Application Publication 2004/0039916 A1 in view of Horstmann U.S. Patent No. 6,009,401.

As per claim 1, 12 and 23, Aldis et al discloses a method comprising:

Art Unit: 3621

maintaining a software license bank for a customer, software licenses stored in the software license bank not being associated with specific machines (fig.1 and 11; 0013, 0014, 0018, claim 61); and accessing a web application to allow a user to automatically obtain a software license for a specific machine from the software license bank, wherein the software license is associated with a first license key (figs.1, 6 and 7; 0014, 0016, 0017, 0018, 0021, 0023, 0061, 0153).

What Aldis et al does not explicitly teach is downgrading software associated with first license key including obtaining a second license key and disabling the first license key.

Hortsmann discloses a method comprising downgrading software associated with first license key including obtaining a second license key and disabling the first license key (fig. 1 and 2; col. 4, lines 25-50; "...preferably the publisher site archives old versions of the software program, allowing a user to relicense previously licensed version...").

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the system of Aldis et al and provide the method of downgrading software associated with first license key including obtaining a second license key and disabling the first license key in view of the teachings of Horstmann in order to revert to old software version for reasons of compatibility or for any reason for that matter.

Art Unit: 3621

As per claim 2, 13 and 24, Aldis et al further discloses the method, wherein the software licenses available from the software license bank depend on a predetermined contract (0022).

As per claim 4, 15 and 26, Aldis et al failed to explicitly disclose the method, wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined CPU count of software licenses.

Horstmann discloses the method, wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined CPU count of software licenses (fig. 2; col. 2, line 60-col. 3, line 15).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the system of Aldis et al and provide the method wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined CPU count of software licenses in view of the teachings of horstmann in order to track license usages/limits.

As per claim 5, 16 and 27, Aldis et al further discloses the method, wherein the software license bank contains an unlimited number of licenses for some period of time (fig. 2 and 4, 0078).

As per claim 6, 17 and 28, Aldis et al failed to explicitly disclose the method, wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined user count of software licenses.

Horstmann discloses the method, wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined user count of software licenses (figs. 2; col. 2, line 60-col. 3, line 15).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the system of Aldis et al and provide the method wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined user count of software licenses in view of the teachings of Horstmann in order to track license usages.

As per claim 7, 18 and 29, Aldis et al further discloses the method, wherein the web application maintains digital records of software licenses, the digital records indicating rights associated with the software licenses (fig. 2, and 4, 0005, 0015, claim 79).

As per claim 8, 19 and 30, Aldis et al further discloses the method, wherein web application can be used to adjust the rights associated with the software license (0022, 0069, 0097).

As per claim 9, 20 and 31, Aldis et al further discloses the method, wherein the web application is used to provide license keys for the software (see figs. 2 and 19, 0077, 0087, claim 40).

As per claim 10, 21 and 32, Aldis et al further discloses the method, wherein the web application uses role based security (fig.1; 0021, 0022, 0023).

4. Claims 3, 11, 14, 22, 25 and 33, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aldis et al U.S. Patent Application Publication 2004/0039916 in view of Horstmann U.S. Patent No. 6,009,401 and further in view of Watanabe et al U.S. Patent Application Publication 2003/0182146 A1.

As per claim 3, 14 and 25, both Aldis et al and Horstmann failed to explicitly disclose the method, wherein the software license bank stores predetermined dollar amount of licenses.

Watanabe et al discloses the method, wherein the software license bank stores predetermined dollar amount of licenses (figs. 3 and 4; 0038).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the system of Aldis et al and provide the method wherein the software license bank stores predetermined dollar amount of licenses in view of the teachings of Watanabe et al in order to track number of available licenses.

As per claim 11, 22, and 33, both Aldis et al and Horstmann failed to explicitly disclose the method, wherein the web application stores configuration information for the computers running the licensed software.

Watanabe et al discloses the method, wherein the web application stores configuration information for the computers running the licensed software (0032).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the system of Aldis et al and provide the method wherein the web application stores configuration information for the computers running the licensed software in view of the teachings of Watanabe et al in order ensure product and/or license compatibility.

5. Claims 37, is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aldis et al U.S. Patent Application Publication 2004/0039916 in view of Watanabe et al U.S. Patent Application Publication 2003/0182146 A1.

As per claim 37, Aldis et al discloses a method comprising:

maintaining a software license bank for a customer, software licenses stored in the software license bank not being associated with specific machines (fig.1 and 11; 0013, 0014, 0018, claim 61); and accessing a web application to allow a user to automatically obtain a software license for a specific machine from the software license bank, wherein the software license is associated with a first license key (figs.1, 6 and 7; 0014, 0016, 0017, 0018, 0021, 0023, 0061, 0153).

Upgrading/downgrading software associated with first license key including obtaining a second license key and disabling the first license key (0099; 0100; 0105; 0119).

What Aldis et al does not explicitly teach is wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined dollar amount of licenses.

Watanabe et al discloses wherein the software license bank stores a predetermined dollar amount of licenses (figs. 3 and 4; 0038).

Accordingly it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of applicant's invention to modify the system of Aldis et al and provide the method wherein the software license bank stores predetermined dollar amount of licenses in view of the teachings of Watanabe et al in order to ease and estimate income by provider.

Conclusion

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
